

Data Science At The End Of Time

Time / Accomplishments / World-view

Antiquity/Classical man	Votes
Socrates (debating), Plato, Aristotle (story)	0
World-view: changed with Christianity, the world is within one sphere, gods wal among us.	0
800 BC to 600 AD	0

Middle ages/Medieval man	Votes
5th Century to 14th century	0
Genghis Khan - Created the Mongols and Mongolian Empire	0
Marco Polo - Discoverer, Traveled mainly along Silk Road	0
Religion shaped world view. Didn't understand the world around them. Thought we were the center of the universe and everything surrounded Earth.	0
On prob and stats, it was God(s)' will. They thought it was all up to their God(s).	0

Modern world/Mass man	Votes
Marcus Birkenkrahe is a physicist and information architect who also works as an executive coach.	69
1400s-today	4
John Graunt - Developed early statistical methods	0
People obsess over numbers, and with that statistics & probability become more prevalent.	0
Statistics and probability are used in more ways and in more fields than ever before, and have become the basis of many decisions.	0
Laplace - Engineered a tool to solve differential equations: Laplace transform	0

Miscellaneous thoughts	Votes
Where would we be without statistics?	0
Probability is not certainty and correlation is not causation.	0